Turning Knowledge Into Action For a Climate Neutral Life In Europe

The Europeans for Climate Association (ECA) believes that a climate neutral life in prosperity is possible. We believe that this is the prerequisite for happiness and peace – not just for us, but for any generations after us.

The ECA was shaped by the initiators' long-standing experience in consulting and training in the fields of communication and cultural development.

To counteract the powerlessness many of us feel in the face of the climate crisis, our association aims to inspire people to develop climate care projects, and to find ways to implement these.

Our initiative Macher machen (Activating Actioneers) offers educational workshops on climate change and how to overcome it, geared to interested businesses as well as private individuals. These include technical, ecological and communicative possible solutions to help participants discover how their individual competencies are best applied, and together develop concrete ideas and projects.

Take part in Macher machen and develop your own initiative!

Taking this initiative a step further, we are working towards a contest amongst citizens' initiatives, municipalities, businesses and corporations in Europe: the European Climate Contest.

This contest will create a public platform for all the on-going climate care projects in Europe and invite investment, networking, participation and imitation. The more attention a climate care initiative gains this way, the more successful it will be.
