The Little Prince Quotes Showing 1-30 of 1,447 "I am looking for friends.

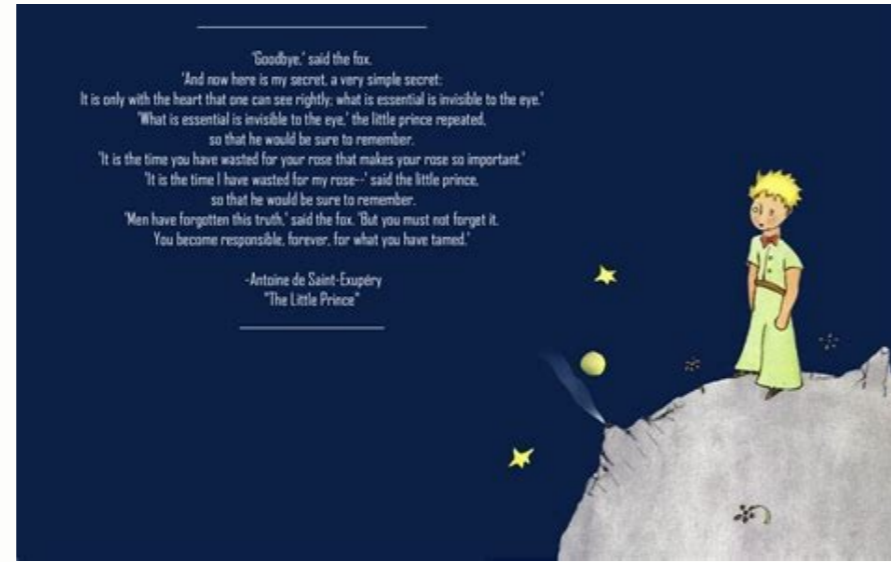

What does that mean -- tame?"It is an act too often neglected," said the fox. "It means to establish ties." "To establish ties?" "Just that," said the fox. "To me, you are still nothing more than a little boy who is just like a hundred thousand other little boys. And I have no need of you. And you, on your part, have no need of me. To you I am nothing more than a fox like a hundred thousand other foxes. But if you tame me, then we shall need each other.

To me, you will be unique in all the world...." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "You - you alone will have the stars as no one else has them...In one of the stars I shall be living.

To you, I shall be unique in all the world...." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "You - you alone will have the stars as no one else has them...In one of the stars I shall be living.

In one of them I shall be laughing. And so it will be as if all the stars were laughing, when you look at the sky at night...You - only you - will have stars that can laugh." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, El Principito "You're beautiful, but you're empty...One couldn't die for you. Of course, an ordinary passerby would think my rose looked just like you. But my rose, all on her own, is more important than all of you together, since she's the one I've watered. Since she's the one I put under glass, since she's the one I sheltered behind the screen. Since she's the one for whom I killed the caterpillars (except the two or three butterflies). Since she's the one I listened to when she complained, or when she boasted, or even sometimes when she said nothing at all. Since she's my rose." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "People where you live," the little prince said, "grow five thousand roses in one garden... yet they don't find what they're looking for...They don't find it," I answered.And yet what they're looking for could be found in a single rose, or a little water..."Of course," I answered.And the little prince added, "But eyes are blind.

You have to look with the heart." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "Where are the people?" resumed the little prince at last. "It's a little lonely in the desert..." "It is lonely when you're among people, too," said the snake." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "If you love a flower that lives on a star, it is sweet to look at the sky at night. All the stars are a-bloom with flowers..." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "All men have stars, but they are not the same things for different people.

And you, on your part, have no need of me. To you I am nothing more than a fox like a hundred thousand other foxes. But if you tame me, then we shall need each other. And when your sorrow is comforted (time soothes all sorrows) you will be content that you have known me... You will always be my friend. You will want to laugh with me. And you will sometimes open your window, so, for that pleasure... It will be as if, in place of the stars, I had given you a great number of little bells that knew how to laugh!" — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "And when your sorrow is comforted (time soothes all sorrows) you will be content that you have known me. You will always be my friend. You will want to laugh with me. And you will sometimes open your window, so, for that pleasure . . . And your friends will be properly astonished to see you laughing as you look up at the sky! Then you will say to them, 'Yes, the stars always make me laugh!' And they will think you are crazy. It will be a very shabby trick that I shall have played on you..." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "She cast her fragrance and her radiance over me. I ought never to have run away from her... I ought to have guessed all the affection that lay behind her poor little stratagems. Flowers are so inconsistent! But I was too young to know how to love her..." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "So the little prince tamed the fox. And when the hour of his departure drew near—Ah," said the fox, "I shall cry." "It is your own fault," said the little prince. "I never wished you any sort of harm; but you wanted me to tame you . . ." "Yes, that is so," said the fox.But now you are going to cry!" said the little prince.Yes, that is so," said the fox.Then it has done you no good at all!" "It has done me good," said the fox, "because of the color of the wheat fields." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "Grown-ups love figures... When you tell them you've made a new friend they never ask you any questions about essential matters. They never say to you "What does his voice sound like? What games does he love best? Does he collect butterflies?" Instead they demand "How old is he? How much does he weigh? How much money does his father make?" Only from these figures do they think they have learned anything about him." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "In those days, I didn't understand anything. I should have judged her according to her actions, not her words. She perfumed my planet and lit up my life. I should never have run away! I ought to have realized the tenderness underlying her silly pretensions. Flowers are so contradictory! But I was too young to know how to love her." — Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Little Prince "But if you tame me, then weshall need each other. To me, you will be unique in all the world.
