

We regret that QETC has had to postpone the November performances of Talking Heads at the CC Amstel theater. New restrictions announced by the government on Tuesday 3rd November, in the fight against Covid-19, include the closure of all theatres in the Netherlands for a period of two weeks. We have therefore taken the decision to reschedule the performances to 17th to 21st of March 2021.

Your tickets have automatically been re-scheduled also, to the same day and time you had booked for November, but instead in that week of March.

If you need additional information you can email us at customerservice@Qetc.nl - please do not contact the CC Amstel Theater as QETC manages all bookings. Please use only this email address as we are unable to answer queries via other email addresses or social media.

These are difficult times for theatre and we have already incurred costs that cannot be recouped. We would like therefore to ask for your continued support and understanding. Rest assured we will soon be back on stage, still bringing you the best of English theatre, here in Amsterdam.

We are sorry for any inconvenience caused. Best wishes and stay safe.
