PREFACE

Dear prospective student(s),

Great, you've decided to study in Delft! Delft is the gold standard among (technical) universities and colleges. This is of course a very exciting time in which you will be moving to a new city, meeting new people and moving from a classroom to a lecture hall. In addition, you may be moving out of home and need to start learning what it's like to really live independently. In short, there's a lot coming your way!

Fortunately, you have just received this BINAS; it contains all the information about Delft, studying, student organizations and all kinds of associations in Delft. You will see that the range is enormous. Every study has its own study association and in addition Delft has more than fifty sports, study and social associations. I therefore encourage you, when you come to Delft, to join one of these organizations or associations. The range is so large that there is a group for everyone where you can feel at home.

When you receive this BINAS you are probably either still working on your exams or have just finished. The countdown to your vacation or exam trip with your mates has begun. Meanwhile, we in Delft are busy organizing the OWee. This year it will take place from August 13 to 17, keep this date free!

After you have been on EJW (first year weekend, your first afko (abbreviation)), you will arrive in Delft on Sunday for the start of the OWee. During the OWee you will be introduced to the city, the campus and you will make friends for the rest of your student life! During the OWee you will have activities like a BBQ along the Schie, the Opening Party, an Activity Market and of course the cantus Sing-a-Long. In the evenings the societies open their doors to throw parties and show you their societies. The OWee is the only week in the year that all societies are open. Are you not into partying? Of course you can, starting this year we will also organize quieter activities in the evening, like a chess tournament for example!

During the OWee almost all students are in Delft, including you as incoming freshmen this means that there are almost 30,000 students in the city. This is a huge number and of course this is very nice, but Delft itself has 100,000 inhabitants. During this week, people should still be able to get a good night's sleep and walk around the city in peace. So please also consider your surroundings during the OWee. If you are walking home at night, be quiet. Do you hear someone else yelling? Talk to him or her about it in a normal tone of voice. Delft is a beautiful city and is characterized by the way residents treat each other. Let's keep it that way!

I wish you a lot of fun reading this BINAS and hope to see you next summer during a golden OWee in Delft!

Berend de Vries
President of the 50th OWee Board

INTRODUCTION

STUDYING AND WELLBEING

<https://www.tudelft.nl/studenten/welzijn-en-studie>

By now, the Covid pandemic seems a relic of the past. Education is once again predominantly taking place on our campus. Meeting each other and working together are back to being a normal part of our lives. That is great. After all, studying together, celebrating together, living together: these are all important elements of a student's life.

Then again, living together is not without its struggles. It calls for shared norms and values. We should behave respectfully towards each other, mindful of each other's boundaries. What may be funny to one person, may cross the line for another. Our academic community is very diverse: our students and staff come from all parts of the world and from many walks of life. We share a passion for engineering, science and design. And all of us strive for a happy life, rich in fulfilment, rich in discovery. "Discovery" holds especially true for our students. Discovering what studying the discipline of your choice really entails. Discovering where your potential lies, and how best to realise it. Discovering who you are – and especially for new students – who your new friends will be and what the unwritten rules and norms of your new environment are. There is quite a lot going on in your student life.

At the same time, student well-being is under pressure. Students are confronted with an increasing pressure to perform, financial insecurity, choice overload, housing shortage and FOMO, to name a few. As a university, we can do something about this, e.g. by removing bottlenecks in our programmes, or by offering more support. But you too can do something about it. You yourself can control your FOMO, up to a sense. By asking yourself this: do I really want to participate in this, does this fit into my daily life? Is it actually as much fun as it looks on Instagram? Student life requires you to make choices, to have a discussion with yourself – and with your friends – on your ambitions and your boundaries. Ask yourself: do I get the balance right between effort and relaxation, or is my relaxation actually a non-stop cycle of stimuli and effort? It helps to reflect on this regularly. You can call it a form of introspection, having an honest conversation with your reflection. Don't be afraid to ask yourself: am I acting responsibly? How about my drinking or substance use? Am I doing things because I value them, or am I just tagging along for the ride? My advice: take care of yourself and take care of others. Make sure you get the balance right. You will find you will then make the most of your time at university and your student days. And you will later look back on your time in Delft as possibly the best time of your life.

I wish you a beautiful and balanced year.

Prof. Sr. Rob Mudde
Vice President of Education

DELFT

This handy guide marks a golden turn in your life. You are on the eve of your life as a Delft undergraduate. A new life stage.

What's in store for you? Well I admit I cannot tell you. One thing I can assure you of is that practically all of the many, many Delft students that preceded you cherish fond memories when they think back on this period in their lives. Delft enabled them to unleash their talents. They were given the opportunity to hugely extend their knowledge in Delft. Delft is where they found friends for life. And where they were allowed to get home as late as they pleased – without parents frowning on them.

Golden years. In Delft you will be going through years that matter. There simply is no better choice for you to have made. After all, with all its splendour and unique atmosphere, Delft also brims with technical knowledge that will surely stand you in good stead.

Eventually, Delft may even turn out to be your gold standard. One important condition for this is that you find out what Delft may have in store for you. How may Delft appear to you as your gold standard? And, likewise, what could you contribute in this respect? How could you add gold in the eyes of Delft?

A great help is this booklet named BINAS (Belangrijke Informatie Naar Alle Studenten; Important Information For All Students). This is your guide during your EKMDLSVN (Eerste Kennismaking Met De Leukste Studentenstad Van Nederland; First Introduction to the Netherlands' Greatest Student City). Make sure you study it well before 'OntvangstWeek', your welcoming week that starts on 13 August. After this there will be many more occasions for you to browse through the very useful information it is full of. Helping both you and Delft to become each other's gold standard.

Other Important Information For All Students: friends that maintain gold standards wish each other nothing but the best. Building on the golden rule: treat others as yourself. Be sure to enjoy your student years to the full, together with your friends and comrades and get home as late as you fancy. That is: as long as your environs are not frowning on you. Make yourself a true gold standard bearer for Delft. And for your neighbours. In return this will make Delft and your neighbours your own gold standard.

I wish you golden years in Delft. And hereafter as well. Who knows Delft may even have a new life stage in store for you after you graduate. As an entrepreneur, innovator or scientist for instance. Or as a neighbour welcoming a new batch of students. As long as each of us sticks to the golden rule, you, Delft and all new arrivals may also turn out each other's gold standards.

But now for the time to come: make sure you enjoy your Delft years, your town and your new friends, and set to work on your studies. Make knowledge, share knowledge and multiply knowledge.

Go For Gold!

Marja van Bijsterveldt
Mayor of Delft

RECTOR MAGNIFICUS

TU DELFT

Gold has played a role in human history for thousands of years. As a means of payment, as a token of recognition by way of gold medals, and nowadays also in electronics: your smartphone is actually somewhat of a gold mine. Until about 50 years ago, the gold standard indicated a relationship between the physical gold supply in bank vaults and first the Dutch guilder, later the dollar. Today, trust in the government has replaced gold and our money is so-called fiat money. The flip side is that putting too much money into circulation can lead to inflation.

What does all this have to do with studying in Delft? Of course we want to offer you a gold standard of education. If the various international university rankings are to be believed, TU Delft does just that. Looking at the metaphorical precious metal we have to offer, we have our beautiful campus filled with high-quality research and teaching facilities and our passionate teachers and other staff. Add to that the more than 100,000 Delft engineers who are already putting their education to good use in all kinds of ways all over the world, and you truly have a splendid capital.

Meanwhile, gold standards are never for eternity, although the name may suggest otherwise. As it happens, successful innovation is often about breaking standards. Disruption, in other words. A good example is urban mining, where raw materials don't come from underground mines, but from the city, for instance from discarded smartphones. Also, in today's digital world a new standard for money seems to be emerging, that of crypto-currencies. Will Bitcoin or some such replace the historic gold standard in the near future? Time will tell. What is certain is that the underlying blockchain technology is a topic within our research and education. And what is a central value in blockchain? Trust.

Trust also plays an important role in our education. On the one hand, the trust that you put in us that we will indeed provide you with a world-class education. In order not to betray that trust, we have to make sure that we keep our courses up-to-date, doable but also challenging, and that we offer a study environment where everyone feels safe and accepted. On the other hand, the trust we place in you, that you are committed to your studies and show an academic work attitude, for example. And if we do not betray that mutual trust, hopefully a golden future will be awaiting all of us.

Tim van der Hagen
Rector Magnificus
Delft University of Technology

EXECUTIVE BOARD

THE HAGUE UNIVERSITY OF APPLIED SCIENCES

"Delft, Een Gouden Maat!" (Delft, A Golden Ratio) is the theme for this year's OWee. An edition with a golden touch as we are celebrating the 50th OWee. So you will not only be studying in a city with a rich history, but can also count on the wealth of experiences of everyone who preceded you in starting a new study and who, like you, participated in the OWee. And most importantly, together with your new 'buddies', your fellow first-year students, you will discover and experience what Delft has to offer.

An investment in gold has proven to be a sure thing over the centuries and agreements about these investments form the basis of a system of mutual trust on which we can build. This also applies to your studies; this is the start of an investment in yourself that will be worth more than its weight in gold. Your study will not only be valuable to you, but will also add value to your community and society where you apply everything you learn. That value consists not only of knowledge and skills, but includes also all the people you meet and with whom you are about to embark on a great journey of discovery. You will learn more about yourself and others. You will experience new adventures, create new stories. Many doors to your future will open and you will likely make friendships that you can build on for the rest of your life.

You will gain all these valuable experiences in Delft. A city where students from several universities of applied sciences and TU Delft are conducting cutting edge research and finding answers to our increasingly complex world. Present and future research that changes our daily lives, either subtly or very visibly. This is where innovations emerge that will forever change the way we travel, interact and care for each other. We will encourage you to take a critical look at yourself and the world around you, so you can determine for yourself what adds value and what does not. The 'Important Information For All Students' (Belangrijke Informatie Naar Alle Studenten, BINAS) will help you do this. Because adding value does not happen in a classroom or lab, but also beyond that. And you don't do it alone, but together. This reference work contributes to that. You will enjoy it both during and after the Introduction Week (OWee).

I hope that Delft can add to your value. The warmth of the city and its inhabitants, the rich cultural and historical background, student life, the huge wealth of available knowledge and so much more. Even long after you have crossed the finishing line of your education. Learn a lot, but above all: Enjoy a golden time in Delft!

EXECUTIVE BOARD

INHOLLAND UNIVERSITY OF APPLIED SCIENCES

Dear student,

Welcome to student life in Delft. You are stepping into a new world where you are going to work on sustainability, innovative, technological and engineering issues and create solutions that make a difference to our society.

Today marks the start of your student life, which encompasses much more than only your studies. You will meet new people, make friends for life and discover what our city and student life have to offer. Coming to study at Inholland University of Applied Sciences means that you have chosen a technical degree programme or a 'green' one in the fields of horticulture, food, animals or the living environment. Being an Inholland student makes you unique, as you have come to the only place where green subjects and technology meet.

Right from the start of your programme, you will work on solutions to issues relating to food, food safety and security, nature, the environment, animal health and well-being, the living environment, and technological and engineering developments. You will gain experience in a practical setting, which will also be directly applicable in practice. In this way, you will contribute to useful, sustainable and socially relevant innovations. Achieving that is not easy, as our programmes are challenging and may be quite difficult. That suits us just fine. Hopefully you feel the same way! At Inholland, we have the courage to think out of the box, open new doors and explore new avenues. We hope you have courage too, as you will need it to learn from your mistakes as well as your successes. At Inholland, we help each other tackle challenges and develop ourselves further. Hence our motto: 'Always strengthening each other'. The difference starts with us.

The campus where you will be studying is home to Delft University of Technology, The Hague University of Applied Sciences, and Inholland University of Applied Sciences. We use each other's facilities, share knowledge and work together. Our degree programmes link up well with each other, creating interesting transfer options. This will offer you many different options to discover where your talents lie and how you can best use them to launch a great career. We are happy to help you with this, together with the businesses and institutions based on and around our campus.

As a student in Delft, you will never be short of options to spend your free time. The city offers a wealth of activities, whether it be sports, culture, festivals or the nightlife in the historic city centre. As one of the oldest student cities in the Netherlands, Delft has a vibrant student scene. You can join one of the many student associations, and nearly every degree programme has a study association. In addition to your studies, participating in student life will make your time at Inholland a memorable experience.

It is still a long way off, but when you have graduated, I hope you will look back on your time as a student here as an educational and fun experience and that you will find your own path as a professional. You will then find a job in the private sector, pursue an advanced university degree, or perhaps start your own business. This will hopefully be the start of a successful career, which has its roots right here in Delft. I hope will you enjoy your studies and wish you lots of success.

Bart Combee
President of the Executive Board of Inholland University of Applied Sciences

HOW DO I SURVIVE MY TIME AS A STUDENT?

FIRST YEAR WEEKEND, OWee AND (MANDATORY) INTRODUCTION PERIOD ASSOCIATIONS

Your student life is about to begin! But what is waiting for you? There are several events taking place before the start of your studies that will make you feel completely at home in Delft. There is a First Year Weekend of your study, the OWee for all prospective students in Delft and an introduction period for those who want to join an association.

But which events are of interest to you? What is the difference between a First Year Weekend and the OWee, the introduction period for all students? What do you need to know before coming to Delft and where to find all the information? In this part (and further in this BINAS) we will give some information on how the beginning of your student time in Delft will be golden!

First year weekend (EJW)

All study associations (the one affiliated with your study) organize a freshmen weekend, or EJW, for all its upcoming first year students. This is a fun and enjoyable weekend where you get to know your fellow students by doing different activities, which will allow you to sit together in the lecture halls and study together. This weekend generally takes place before the OWee. Keep an eye on the socials of your study association. Want to know more about study associations? Check out chapter 6 of this Binasc: Study associations!

Introduction Week (OWee)

After the First Year Weekend, the OWee takes place. The OWee is the Reception Week of Delft, as you may have read before. During this reception week you and your OWee group, which often comes over from the First Year Weekend, explore the city of Delft. You get to know all the associations that Delft has and you make the city your own.

During the OWee you get to know your golden buddies and make Delft your place!

Getting to know time (KMT) & open training/rehearsals

If you join one of Delft's many associations, chances are that after the OWee you will have to keep a few days or evenings free for the KennisMakingsTijd (KMT) or open trainings/repetitions of this association. The length of the KMTs and the dates vary by association. The associations will take your studies into account and provide you with a place to sleep in Delft if it is a multi-day event. For the exact dates, keep an eye on the socials of the respective association, and ask for information about it during the OWee!

What is the use of the BINAS?

The BINAS, the booklet you are browsing now, contains all the information about becoming a student in Delft that you need to make a golden start. We recommend that you browse through all study and student associations, student initiatives and places of interest to get a feel for what Delft has to offer! That way you know what you are interested in and which places you might want to visit during the OWee.

OWee PROGRAM 2023

DELFT, THE GOLDEN RATIO

During the OntvangstWeek the whole of Delft is upside down and all new students walk through the city. Of course you are not alone: with nine future fellow students and two senior year mentors you will explore Delft and its student life. Together with them you will get to know Delft, follow the OWee program and experience a golden week!

Program

During the OWee, each day will feature a different aspect of student life. The day program is provided by the OWee Board. In the evening you can eat at the associations before the evening program breaks loose. Each association organizes different activities, There is something for everyone! Here is an impression of what this year's OWee program will look like.

BEFORE THE OWee

August 7th: Online Opening

Before the physical OWee, there will be an online opening. There will be several activities, such as a talk show and the Associations Forum where associations will tell you what they stand for. After this, you are well prepared to follow the OWee program!

First Years Weekend

Just before the OWee are the First Year Weekends. Your study association organizes a weekend where you can get to know your fellow students. For more information check the website of your study association or read the BINAS! You can register for the First Year Weekend at www.owe.nl.

13-17 OF AUGUST BASECAMP

During the whole OWee

Throughout the OWee, you can chill at Basecamp. Here you can get food, relax and participate in fun games and activities. A chill space to unwind during the week, or to use as a meeting place for your group. This way you can start your day off right!

SUNDAY AUGUST 13TH OPENING

The OWee begins at the Logistical Opening. Here you meet your fellow students and get your band: your ticket for the rest of the week!

At the Schiediner we eat together along the Schie while a beautiful parade passes by where you can get a first impression of the student associations in Delft.

The evening ends with the grand Opening Party!

MONDAY AUGUST 14TH DISCOVER DELFT

This day is all about the city of Delft. After breakfast with study associations, you will stop by the Aula to pick up your backpack with goodies. You will also be welcomed here by the chairman of the OWee Board and the Executive Board at the Central Opening.

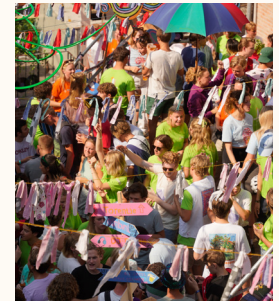

After this you can have fun exploring the city through the Discover Delft. You will also be having lunch there.

Then there is a large Information Market where all associations, the municipality and other companies present themselves with cool stunts and gadgets.

TUESDAY AUGUST 15TH ASSOCIATION DAY

On this day you will visit different associations where you will get a tour and do activities. Not sure yet if you want to join an association, or which one? Then this day is very important! In addition, during Student Talk you can ask your questions about being a student to an inspiring speaker.

During the day you can play fun games and chill at OWaterlympics. In the evening you will get a meal at associations and you can go to the Open Air Cinema or to Delft Got Talent; a talent show in which you too can participate!

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 16TH COMING TOGETHER

On Wednesday, the Backstage Campus Tour will show you all the hidden places on campus: from wind tunnels to the well-known 'dead room'.

You will also get the chance to get to know student sports and cultural associations better at the Activities Market. The day will end festively with the legendary Cantus Sing-a-Long! In the evening you can discover local catering establishments through the Proef Delft.

THURSDAY AUGUST 17TH GOLDEN RATIO FESTIVAL

Had a nice week? Ready to study? Thursday, Basecamp will be about becoming an independent student. Take a look at the exhibit of cool researches and visit the info booths with fun workshops and games that will help you with all sorts of things you might run into during your college years. How do I find a house? How to cook or clean? Where to go if your studies are not going well? Find out at the Golden Ratio Festival!

LADIES INTRO

MONDAY JUNE 12TH

Despite the fact that more and more girls are choosing to study engineering, Delft is still known as a city of men. This does not mean that there is no place in Delft for girls or people with a different gender identity. Quite the opposite in fact! Delft students are incredibly important in our city. During the upcoming Ladies Intro we change Delft to a women's city where you can meet many other future students from your study but also from all other studies. So come and enjoy a moment that Delft is not a man's city.

Program

The program starts during the morning with a Central Reception. Here you will be welcomed to Delft and meet your group and mentors for the day. Then you will follow workshops with this group at two different sports and cultural associations. After a nice lunch in the afternoon there will be a varied program at the associations with fun workshops. Almost all associations participate, so you will get a good idea of what Delft has to offer. In the evening there is a dinner at a student association so you can recover from the day. Then we close the day with an evening program and a banging final party!

In summary, this is a great day to get to know Delft and make new friends for your upcoming student life.

ALCOHOL POLICY

Many of you are already 18 years old and therefore old enough to buy and consume alcohol. However, another part is not yet 18 years old and is therefore not allowed to buy and drink alcohol. Alcohol is inextricably linked to student culture. In Delft, this takes place largely outside the regular catering industry, within study and student associations, student houses and student events. In mid-2018, a collaboration was started between five student associations, the Youth and Alcohol Foundation, Red Cross Delft and Midden-Delfland, the Municipality of Delft and TU Delft. The reason for this was the observation that alcohol use among students deserves more attention.

This is because regular (excessive) use of alcohol by students who are often still young causes significant health risks. In addition, it can lead to adverse consequences for their environment in the form of nuisance and physical damage, effect on study results, but also damage to the image of students in general. In addition, drinking alcohol is not a 'must'! For example, at all events where the OWee offers drinks, you will also be able to buy 0.0 drinks and soft drinks in addition to alcoholic drinks. There will also be events where no alcohol is served.

0.OWee, 100% OKee.

During the OWee the following house rules apply:

1. Alcohol will not be served to anyone under the age of 18. Those under 18 will be given a different wristband to those aged 18 or over. You cannot take part in any Introduction Week event, including the evening programme, unless you are wearing a wristband. This will be checked at all events and student clubs.
2. You should always have a valid ID card on you during Introduction Week activities and at the evening events – even if you are over 18.
3. Any Introduction Week participant under the age of 18 caught consuming alcohol will be immediately removed from the activities/evening programme and their wristband will be confiscated.
4. A note will be made of the name of the Introduction Week participant in question. A decision will then be taken on whether the person in question can buy back their wristband.
5. It is not permitted to pass on alcoholic drinks to underage participants. Any breach of this rule will result in both parties having their wristbands confiscated on the spot. They will then no longer be able to take part.
6. Participants may not bring their own alcoholic drinks to Introduction Week events.
7. There will be a zero tolerance policy towards underage drinking and the use of drugs during the 2023 Introduction Week.
8. It is not permitted to use drugs, including laughing gas, during the Introduction Week

SUSTAINABILITY

What we do

Each year, the OWee Board aims to create the most sustainable Introduction Week possible. This involves making big but also small changes, all of which contribute to reducing the carbon footprint we leave behind after the OWee. For example, this BINAS has been reduced by almost 100 pages in recent years. This saves us about 900 kilograms of paper!

In recent years, at every event organized, we have done our best to separate the waste streams as much as possible. For this we also ask for your help! Together we can make sure that the waste of thousands of new students ends up in the right place as much as possible. Throw your waste in the right bin during and after the OWee!

In addition to the above points, we have other spearheads regarding sustainability. Here are some of them:

- Quality items left over from previous OWee editions will not be thrown away. We donate usable items such as shirts, bags and waterbottles to organizations that distribute them to schools abroad that desperately need them. Leftover food will be given to the 'Voedselbank'; a place where people with less budget for food can pick it up!

- o At our events, we use plastic hard cups whenever possible. This way, the cups can be used multiple times, which means much less plastic needs to be used! So don't forget to return your cup after an event.
- o The OWee has many sponsors each year. This year we are encouraging our sponsors to choose more environmentally friendly flyers. These flyers are printed on growth paper: this is biodegradable paper and contains flower seeds!
- o During the OWee, participants will receive gadgets. This year we are going to investigate sustainable options, and will choose to use them if possible.
- o During the OWee, all meals included in the registration fee are vegetarian. With this action we want to create more awareness among both participants and mentors!

What can you do?

You too can contribute to a better environment! With getting older comes more responsibility! Are you aware of how sustainable you are?

- o Is the heating always on? Can you turn it down by 2 degrees?
- o How much meat do you eat? Could it be less?
- o Do you leave the light on during the day? Could you turn them off?
- o Are you aware of the food you throw away every week?

GESCHIEDENIS

History

In the coming years, the city of Delft will be your city. A city that has a rich history and has been a residence of many important people. It is definitely worth knowing a little more about the city.

The roots

Around the year 1000 it was discovered that swampy peat becomes drier when a ditch is dug. This digging is also called delving. The English word for dug is "delved," from which Delft gets its name. In the place where Delft now lies, a ditch was dug and a settlement arose. A hundred years later, the village grew so large that a new ditch was needed: the Nieuwe Delft. Delft became an important market center, which can still be seen by the size of the central market square. In 1246, Delft received city rights from the Dutch Count William II.

City map of Delft c.a. 1580

The Middle Ages

During the Middle Ages, Delft experienced difficult periods; in the 14th century, Delft was besieged and in 1536 a fierce fire reduced the entire city to ashes. The greatest disaster was the "Delft Thunderclap." In 1654 the powder cellar exploded where the Paardenmarkt is now located. 200 houses were in ruins and 300 were badly damaged. In the 16th century, William of Orange came to live in Delft. "I cannot approve of sovereigns wanting to rule over the conscience of their subjects and deprive them of freedom of faith and religion" is one of his winged statements. This was the cause of his conflict with Phillips II and the beginning of the Eighty Years' War. In 1580 William of Orange was banished by Phillips II and in 1584 at the Prinsenhof in Delft he was assassinated by Balthazar Gerards.

The new powderhouse on the schiedamsche dijk built in 1600.

17th century

This century saw an economic boom in Delft, partly due to the presence of the Dutch East India Company and the trade in porcelain, the Delft Blue. Due to a war in China, Chinese porcelain could no longer be supplied and Delft gained a monopoly on the porcelain market. This was also the time of one of the greatest painters of the Golden Age, "Johannes Vermeer." This great painter was born in Delft in 1632 and lived there all his life.

HISTORY

Decline

From the disaster year of 1672, where England, France, Cologne and Munster invaded the Dutch Republic, Delft also suffered an economic decline. Since that time, Delft became overshadowed by the cities of The Hague (government city) and Rotterdam (port city).

City of knowledge

In 1842, a strong need for technically skilled people arose in the Netherlands, so the Royal Academy of Civil Engineers was founded in Delft. This academy was the forerunner of today's Delft University of Technology and offered courses in mechanical, civil and mining engineering. As a result, Delft grew into a thriving student city.

But Delft's history as a city of knowledge goes back much further. One of the most famous figures in Delft's history is Anthonie van Leeuwenhoek, a famous scientist who lived and worked in Delft in the 17th century. Van Leeuwenhoek is best known for his discoveries in the field of microbiology. Using microscopes he built himself, he discovered countless new microorganisms, laying the foundation for modern microbiology. His work had a great influence on the development of science and is still studied and appreciated today.

With the establishment of TNO in 1932 and other knowledge-intensive institutes and companies, Delft transformed from a City of Culture and Princes into a City of Knowledge. Delft has since developed into a major player in the field of technology and innovation, and is a place where major scientific discoveries are made. Delft University of Technology plays an important role in this, but other knowledge institutions and companies are also of great importance to the development of the city.

With a rich history in science and innovation, and a vibrant student culture, Delft remains a city where knowledge is highly valued and new ideas are born. It is a city that is still in full swing and where the future is full of opportunities and possibilities.

Student living at home

Eren Kartal, 1st year student Civil Engineering

Why did you decide to stay living at home?

I still find that I like living in familiar surroundings better. For me, student life took a lot of getting used to, and living in a room seemed too big a step. Furthermore, I wasn't sure yet whether my studies would really suit me, so I thought it would be better to wait and see before moving in. Of course, living in a room costs a lot of money; it would be too expensive for me to have to pay rent as well. In the meantime, I do plan to look for a room.

Would you advise a prospective student to stay living at home?

For many, there is almost no other option than to move into a room, for instance because it is a very long commute to Delft. Some don't find this a problem; you can study very nicely on the train, for example. There are also students who are very active in an association in Delft, for them it is difficult to join drinks when they have to return home by train that same evening. So it very much depends on your own situation whether a room in Delft is really necessary.

Sum up your student life in one sentence!

Some go to clubs, I'm in the civic caterpillar.

Student living in a student house

Koen Boschloo, 2nd year student Motion Technology

Why did you decide to live in student housing?

I left home because I started studying in The Hague. With my parents, I lived in Deventer so I had to. Otherwise I had to go one and a half hours one and back every day. I chose Delft because I wanted to live in a real student city and you don't have that in The Hague.

What kind of house do you live in?

I live in a double-mixed house, with toko, business, boys and girls. My house is called Soul inn. I live here together with the chairman, apart from that I have 7 other housemates. On the oh-so-beautiful Willemstraat.

How do you choose a house?

"Visit as many different types of houses as possible to see what you like, don't think too much in one direction" - Femke Brouwer, 5th year Applied Physics, also my HO.

Sum up your student life in one sentence!

Busy, but super nice.

Dream Team student

Lena Grossmann, 3rd year student Computer Science & Engineering

What is Dream Team?

A dream team consists of people from various backgrounds and years of studies who all set aside their studies for a year, in order to commit themselves to the development of a unique project.

In which Dream Team are you?

I am one of the embedded engineers of project MARCH. Our mission is to improve the quality of life for people with spinal cord injuries by building an exoskeleton. An exoskeleton is a motorized robotic harness which enables people with paraplegia to stand up and walk again.

Why did you choose to do a Dream Team?

I wanted to challenge myself, go out of my comfort zone, and apply the theoretical knowledge acquired during my studies to a more concrete project. Joining Project MARCH was also a great way to meet ambitious and motivated students from various studies!

How do you combine the team with other activities?

Since we work from 9:00-17:00 during the week, I have time to go to the gym and go out in the evening. And during the weekend I have plenty of time for other activities!

Summarize your student life in one sentence!

Challenging, exciting, and fulfilling!

Top athlete

Faye Muijderland, 2nd year student Architecture, Urbanism and Building Sciences

How do you combine top-class sport with studying?

I immediately contacted the top-level sports coordinator when I came to Delft. I also communicate very early to lecturers when I have to play hockey, you can often coordinate when you have a study group, for example. I watch my lectures online and I keep in touch with my fellow students about what has been discussed, so I keep up to date.

Can you combine top-class sport with a association?

I wouldn't want to, because I already spend three evenings playing hockey and also like to keep evenings free to meet up with friends. But it is possible, but it is important to prioritise and plan well. It's very personal. For me, hockey really comes first. If I don't have hockey, or a free weekend, I'll go do something with my housemates, teammates, college friends or friends from home. Everyone can combine top sport with other things, but it depends on where you prioritise yourself. It is good to talk to people about what you are doing, because it can all be quite a lot: a new house, a new city, for me also a new hockey club. It can be quite intense. It's all worth it to me. I get a lot of energy from hockey, so I'm glad it can be combined.

Sum up your student life in one sentence!

Very diverse.

MEMBER OF A STUDY ASSOCIATION

Annabelle van Rooij, 1st year Industrial Design

Why did you choose to join your study association?

This year I came to Delft and through the first year weekend of my study association I already knew a lot of nice people from my study. So joining my study association was definitely a good choice, because it makes everything just a little bit easier. I immediately felt more at home in Delft with nice people around me.

To what extent does being a member of a study association influence your studies?

At my study association I do several committees where I am involved in every week with some fellow students. This is great fun to do and is also easy to combine with the study itself. In addition, almost every Wednesday I am behind the bar of ID Kafee, the bar of the study association, which is very cozy. I met a lot of nice people and I am guaranteed to have a great Wednesday night!

How did you experience the OWee?

The OWee was a week of fun with lots of partying and making super many new friends. Especially with my OWee group I had a super fun time, these are still very good friends of mine. So it was definitely a successful week!

Summarize your student life in one sentence!
BEAUTIFUL!

MEMBER OF A STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Timo van de Groep, 1st year Mechanical Engineering

Why did you choose to join your student union?

I came to Delft without knowing anything about the whole student and association life. When I found out during the OWee that this was such a big thing in Delft, I went with my OWee group to visit all the associations and because of this I soon found out that this suited me exactly. They were all people I got along well with, there was a nice atmosphere and above all it was a good start to student life. Apart from having a great time at the association, I also found a super nice house and joined the soccer sub-association. So I had quickly established a whole life in Delft.

How did you choose your student union and do you have any tips?

So I visited all the associations during the OWee and from that I decided where I found the nicest people and the best atmosphere. I would especially recommend this, because there is a suitable association for everyone! 3. How did you experience your OWee? Super fun! I tried to go to all the parties and found the best place for me in Delft.

STUDENT HOUSING

You come to study in Delft, but you are not the only one looking for a room. In this chapter you will find useful tips for finding a home!

Make sure to arrange your accommodation before arriving in the Netherlands, as you are officially required to register a valid Dutch address within 5 days after arrival in the Netherlands. Registering a valid Dutch address at the local municipality is a legal obligation for all who intend to stay in the Netherlands for 4 months or more, irrespective of nationality or purpose of stay. A valid and registered address allows you to obtain a BSN (Citizen Service Number), which is needed to interact with Dutch authorities.

TU Delft suggests three ways to arrange accommodation. See below for information on each of these options.

Finding accommodation thorough rental agencies or private landlords

Prioritize finding accommodation once you know that you will attend TU Delft. Finding a room in Delft can be difficult and time-consuming. As most university cities in the Netherlands, Delft has a shortage of affordable student accommodations. The following information may prove to be useful when looking for accommodation:

- Delft is a relatively small city, therefore neighbouring municipalities can provide good alternatives within reasonable travel distance from TU Delft's campus.
  - Groups on Facebook could aid the search for accommodation; e.g. "Find a room(mate) in Delft" & "Find an international roommate in Delft".
- Keep the following in mind when looking for accommodation:

- There are fewer (affordable) accommodations available, in the months leading up to the start of a new academic year
- Most accommodations on offer are unfurnished and rent often does not include utilities and municipal taxes.
- Make sure the owner provides you with a declaration of permission to register the address with the municipality.
- Read the rental agreement carefully.
- Be aware of rental frauds.

After finding accommodation register your Dutch address as soon as possible in Studielink.

Lodging with family, friends, and other acquaintances

Moving in with someone? Make sure to have permission from the primary resident as well as the owner of the residence to register the address with the municipality, for which you can use this authorisation form. Fill in the authorisation form and have it signed by the primary resident and the owner of the residence. Bring the form with the necessary documents, as mentioned in the form, to your registration with the municipality.

Additionally, register your Dutch address as soon as possible in Studielink.

Finding accommodation using TU Delft's housing service

TU Delft has partnered with various housing agencies in the greater-Delft region to offer accommodation to students coming from abroad. Accommodations will become available prior to the start of each semester and can only be reserved through TU Delft's housing portal.

Students & City

Delft, the Golden Ratio. A city of versatility, different people from different backgrounds, education levels and cultures together in 24 square kilometers. But how do you fit in as a student? Delft is known as a real student city; 19% of all residents in all of Delft are students. This gives Delft the third highest percentage of student households in the Netherlands, according to CBS. Although there are many of us as students, students are just as much residents of the city of Delft as non-students! Delft is your city, your home. As inhabitants of Delft, we are all responsible for maintaining our nice, pleasant and clean city!

Living in Delft

As a prospective student, you may be looking for a new place to live in Delft, perhaps a student house. Once you have succeeded, you register with the Municipality of Delft, and you are officially a resident of Delft. Delft has many student houses throughout the city, from the inner city to the suburbs. However, because of the 'Verkamersings'-law, new student houses cannot be added just like that. This has to do with the number of students in the city centre; the law ensures that the ratio of students to non-students remains in a golden balance.

Minimalise nuisance

But as a resident of Delft, how do you contribute to maintaining the atmosphere and bond between residents of the city? Very easy; think of your fellow man! Here are some basic tips on how you can reduce nuisance:

1. Be quiet on the streets at night, as well as in the garden! If you want to call family during the night because they are in another time zone, do so indoors! That way everyone will get a good night's sleep.
2. Park your bike in the designated spaces. This way everyone can get around normally
3. Throw your trash in the garbage cans on the street. This is not only good for the city, but also for the environment!

Associations

During the OWee you will see that a number of associations have their buildings in or around the city center, or near residential areas. Some of these associations have made agreements with their neighbors about, for example, the volume of music during parties or the parking of bikes on the street. They have done this because residents and associations are often close together, especially in the city center. So if you are passing through here at night during the OWee, it is extra important that you pay attention to your fellows! Park your bike in a place where it won't bother anyone and talk softly when you walk out the door at an association; during and after the OWee!

Your input

It's important to understand that your actions can affect residents.

So, what can you do to bond with local people? Firstly, you can get involved in volunteering work. It's a great way to help the community and meet new people at the same time. For example; distribute soup to the elderly. Next to that, it's fun to attend local events. Whether it's festivals, sporting events or markets, you can have a lot of fun while getting to know the city and its people.

And let's not forget to shop at local stores and restaurants. Not only does it support the local economy, but it can also lead to a good relationship with the owners and employees of these businesses.

It is important to treat your environment and your fellow human beings respectfully and responsibly. Stick to the rules and Delft and its people will welcome you with open arms!

Everything you need to know before coming to the Netherlands!

VISA application

In order to be able to study in the Netherlands, you may need to apply for a MVV VISA (entry VISA) and/or a Residence Permit for Study. TU Delft will apply for these VISAs at the IND on your behalf. The IND is the Dutch Immigration and Naturalisation Services. It is not possible for you as a student to apply yourself. If you hold the nationality of the EU or EFTA, you don't need to a VISA and/or residence permit.

In order to apply for your MVV VISA and/or Residence Permit for Study, you need to fulfil the following conditions:

- You have been (conditionally) admitted to the TU Delft as a student.
- You are able to demonstrate your financial solvability (i.e. tuition fee and/or costs of living)

You can find more information about the application of a MVV VISA and/or Residence Permit for Study at <https://www.tudelft.nl/en/education/practical-matters/visa-residence-permit>. If you have any specific questions, you can contact the Education & Student Affairs at contactcentre-esa@tudelft.nl.

Registration with the municipality

If you are coming to live in Delft for a longer period than 4 months, you need to register within the municipality of Delft within 5 days of your arrival. To do so, you need to gather the right documents. These are:

- Permanent residence address
- A passport
- A copy of your MVV
- A proof of enrolment with the TU Delft

With these documents, you can make an appointment with the municipality, which you can do by calling the number 14015. After you've had your appointment, you will get a confirmation and you'll receive your Citizen Service Number (BSN in Dutch). This number is important for other services in the Netherlands.

Dutch bank account

If you already have a bank account with an IBAN-number and it's registered in a SEPA country, you could keep your bank account. However, it's still smart to have a Dutch account, because your bank may charge you extra costs and some services in the Netherlands are only accessible with Dutch bank accounts. With your BSN, you can get a free bank account at quite a lot of banks. Some of the Dutch banks are: ASN bank, ABN Amro bank, SNS bank, ING bank and Rabobank.

Health insurance

TU Delft advises all students to have sufficient medical insurance and personal liability insurance. It is your own responsibility to be sufficiently insured on the date of your departure to the Netherlands.

Sufficient medical insurance (in Dutch "ziekttekostenverzekering") covers medical expenses up to the Dutch cost price. The personal liability insurance (in Dutch "aansprakelijkheidverzekering/AVP") is meant to insure you for damage you accidentally cause to someone else.

Which healthcare insurance you need depends on your nationality and whether you have a part time job or paid internship in the Netherlands next to your studies. You can find which health care you need at <https://www.tudelft.nl/en/education/practical-matters/insurance-and-healthcare>.

Travel by public transport

In the Netherlands, wherever you want to go outside of Delft, public transport will take you there easily. To travel by train, metro, bus or tram you need an OV-chipkaart. For only €7,50 you have a personal card. You must top up your balance on your card in order to travel. There are different type of cards, which you can find at <https://www.ns.nl/en/travel-information/traveling-with-the-ov-chipkaart/different-ov-chipkaart-variants-ns-business-card.html>. You can apply for a personal OV-chipkaart at <https://www.ov-chipkaart.nl/en/apply-for-personal-ov-chipcard>

TU DELFT

The world of TU Delft

Choosing to go to TU Delft is about so much more than your choice of study. TU Delft offers high quality teaching and an inspiring, fascinating, and attractive study environment that allows you, as a student, to develop into a critical, results oriented, and socially responsible engineer. You will find yourself in an international setting in which everyone is welcome, regardless of sexual orientation, functional impairment, or cultural, political, or religious background. There are more than 125 nationalities at the university, and almost a quarter of all students are from outside the Netherlands.

Welcome!

During your first weeks at TU Delft, you will no doubt have all kinds of questions about your degree programme and everything related to it. From information about enrolment and termination of enrolment, tuition fees, and financial assistance (Profiling Fund) to lecture times and where to find your timetable. To help get you off to a good start, we have posted a range of useful information for you on the welcome.tudelft.nl website. Here, you will find information about the academic calendar and a map of the campus showing where teaching buildings and catering facilities are located, as well as information about the laptop project, study support and all the other amenities available at TU Delft.

Faculties and degree programmes

TU Delft has eight faculties. These are departments at the university that focus on particular subjects and offer Bachelor's and Master's programmes in these subjects.

Study culture and teaching methods

The study culture at TU Delft is ambitious and enterprising. Our students follow a relatively challenging and intensive study programme, by Dutch standards. You need a positive and active attitude to studying and you have to be able to plan and organise your time properly. Studying at TU Delft means a great deal of independence. Are you looking for a good place to study? Then the TU Delft library is the perfect spot. There are more locations with study spots, you can find them at spacefinder.tudelft.nl.

As well as being good at leadership, analytical, and critical, TU Delft students enjoy a reputation for showing initiative and setting up projects. That enterprising character is part and parcel of the make-up of TU Delft students and engineers. As a TU Delft student, you ask yourself not only how something works, but how it could be improved upon; you see a problem in society and find a solution to it.

You will spend much of your time working alone when studying, but you will also learn how to work well in groups. You will carry out many projects as part of a group and experience several different teaching formats during your studies. We strive to provide as much face-to-face classes as possible. However it is that some teaching will take place online. Depending on your studies some classes will take place in a laboratory.

Structure of Bachelor's degree programme

The academical year has an official opening ceremony. Roughly the year is divided in 4 quarters. You have exams multiple times throughout the year and you are obliged to sign up for the exams yourself. Prior to your exams you occasionally have a 'witte week'; a lecture free week. This week students are provided time to revisit material from the past quarter.

A Bachelor's degree programme lasts three years, as is the case at all other universities. Most of the engineering programmes have lots of theoretical classes that demands lots of knowledge and selfstudy and mathematics like linear algebra, calculus and analytics.

Apart from that you will participate in experimental learning which often takes place in groups. This way you will use your theoretical knowledge in a practical situation. At the end of your first year, you will be given a binding recommendation on whether or not to continue with your studies.

If you have obtained less than 45 of your 60 credits, you may not continue with the same programme the following year. During your second year you will deepen your knowledge and then choose a minor in your third year. During this half year you can focus on a specific topic within your Bachelor's programme or broaden your horizon. You can choose a minor at another TU Delft faculty or other universities in the Netherlands or even abroad. In other words, you have a lot of freedom in terms of what you do in these six months. We encourage international mobility by offering options for doing part of your programme at another university, in or outside the Netherlands. TU Delft has partnerships with various other universities and international companies, which makes it easy for you to go on an (online) exchange programme. In your third year you will work on your Bachelor's thesis project (BEP). After completing this project you will receive your Bachelor's degree and you can call yourself a bachelor of science. You will then have the choice of continuing to study or starting work. Following on from your Bachelor's programme, you can take a Master's programme. At universities of technology, they take two years.

Honours Programme

Bachelor's students who are capable of handling more than the regular degree programme and who perform at an above average level can take part in the TU Delft Honours Programme, a challenging supplementary programme in which you carry out research or do projects independently. You can design much of the programme yourself. Together with Honours students from other Bachelor's programmes, you may find yourself working on research for a professor, for example, or writing a business plan, carrying out an assignment for a company, or organising scientific lectures for fellow students. More information about HPD can be found at tudelft.nl/en/student/education/honours-programme.

Activities besides your studies

TU Delft offers various student projects – separate from the degree programmes – that give you the opportunity to further develop your talents. These student projects are also referred to as 'dream teams'. Examples include the Delft Hyperloop and TU Delft Hydro Motion Team. This is a great way to learn, and the experience gained is invaluable for your future career. Do you have ideas to start your own company or do you want to learn more about entrepreneurship? The Delft Centre for Entrepreneurship develops your entrepreneurial skills met classes, competitions and the start-up night.

Diversity & Inclusion

You can expect TU Delft to allow you to feel at home and safe and to develop yourself, regardless of individual differences. That is why TU Delft pays a lot of attention to accessibility and diversity in education and brings people together in a rich and diverse working and study environment, with equal opportunities for all. More information can be found at tudelft.nl/en/about-tu-delft/strategy/diversity-inclusion.

X is a place on campus where you can develop in areas that are not always reflected in academic training, but which are invaluable. X focuses on the needs of young people and has a variable offerings in the areas of sports, games, arts crafts, reflection and lifestyle. The offerings range ranging from courses, ticket hours, events and projects like for example, free use of a student kitchen and living room and self-initiating of activities and/or programme offerings. More information can be found at tudelft.nl/x.

Contact

ESA Contact Centre
tudelft.nl/student/contact

WELLBEING DURING YOUR STUDIES

The TU Delft provides support to students through several ways. You can use the E-Health tool 'Gezondeboel' and workshops on the field of personal development.

TU Delft also offers specific types of support to students with a functional impairment, such as dyslexia, but also to ambitious top-level athletes. At the Wellbeing & Study page (tudelft.nl/en/student/well-being-and-study) you can read more about it.

You can contact the study advisors for:

- o notification of illness, disability or other special circumstances
- o general questions about the study programme
- o study planning and study skills
- o stop or switching studies
- o admission to BSc/MSc projects or subjects
- o applying for financial support (e.g. Profileringsfonds) in case of unforeseen circumstances leading to study delay
- o coping with stress or motivation problems
- o personal or psychological problems
- o study guidance in more complex medical situations
- o study delay due to family circumstances
- o coaching in dealing with study problems

Confidential advisers

Before, during and after the OWee, there is a confidential counselor at TU Delft who you can (literally) go to at all times with reports about any nature of maladaptive behavior and/or when you need help yourself

Psychologists

What can you expect from the student psychologists? In addition to courses, the psychologists at TU Delft also offer short-term, individual supervision.

In principle, short-term means that the supervision consists of a maximum of 3 conversations. During the intake, we look at what the student encounters, how this came about and what someone wants to work on. Then, together with the student, a plan is drawn up for the follow-up interviews. Sometimes it becomes apparent during the intake that the student needs long-term supervision or a different specialization than we can offer with the student psychologists. Then we refer the student to the general practitioner for a referral to a psychologist outside the TU.

Study choice advisor

The Study Choice Advisor is specialized in guiding students in their choice of study. You can follow a large number of workshops about study choice, reconsidering study options and finding the right master's degree.

TU DELFT

STUDIEPLEKKEN

Library (building 21)

TU Delft Library is the largest technical scientific library in the Netherlands. The library selects, manages, processes and supplies information from the Netherlands and abroad that is relevant to all studies at the TU. TU Delft Library is also a great place to study quietly or to collaborate with a project group. The Library Learning Center can be found on Prometheusplein behind the Aula. You can use various types of study places, project rooms and printing facilities here.

Pulse (building 33)

The teaching rooms in Pulse are available for selfstudy outside the scheduled hours. The timetable of the rooms is visible on the screen in the central hall and on the room managers at the rooms. The study places in the corridors are also available for self-study.

The Fellowship (building 66)

The teaching rooms Fellowship Education Building 66 are available for selfstudy outside the scheduled hours. The timetable of the rooms is visible on the screen in the central hall and on the room managers at the rooms.

Echo (building 29)

The sustainable Echo education building has a total of seven teaching rooms, most of which can be flexibly partitioned. In this way three separate rooms can be made out of the largest lecture hall of 700 places. Group work and self-study are possible at the more than 300 study places.

Flux

In the middle of the campus - between Cornelis Drebberweg, Leeghwaterstraat, Korvezeestraat and Feldmannweg - TU Delft has started construction of the new education building Flux. It is a temporary and demountable building that can be built and reused elsewhere in the future if necessary. Flux is expected to be occupied by Q3 2023 and will offer 20 study places.

The Hague University of Applied Sciences (THUAS) ensures that students, teachers and partners develop into world citizens together: people who are not limited in their thinking, who are self-assured, and who embrace different perspectives. People who develop creative and workable solutions together. We create a safe and engaging environment in which all students get what they need to become global citizens. Of course, you will also become the tech professional the business world is looking for.

The Hague University of Applied Sciences in Delft

Our brightly and naturally lit, clearly structured building in Delft houses 7 higher vocational programmes related to technology and innovation:

- o Electrical and Electronic Engineering
- o HBO ICT
- o Mechatronics
- o Industrial Engineering and Management
- o Applied Physics
- o Applied Mathematics
- o Mechanical Engineering

All in all, some 3,800 students study at the Delft location. The Hague University of Applied Sciences has three other locations: the main building (next to Den Haag Hollands Spoor station) in The Hague, and the locations in the Zuiderpark and Zoetermeer.

Obtaining a master's degree at THUAS

This academic year, our Next Level Engineering master's degree will start in Delft. Something to keep in mind. If you still want more after four years of studying, this master's will allow you to get your MSc title within a year.

Enjoying sports and culture in Delft or The Hague

As a THUAS student in Delft, you have the advantage of being able to enjoy the sport facilities and cultural activities in both Delft and The Hague. Do you like films or performances? Then keep an eye on the programme at The Lighthouse in The Hague. Do you prefer to work on your fitness? Then check out the gym in the main building. In that gym, you can play various team sports or take classes in yoga, Pilates, body pump or zumba. With a sports & fitness pass you can exercise for a whole year, nice and cheap. As a THUAS student, you are also welcome to join the activities of X, TU Delft's sports and cultural centre.

Study associations

All study programmes in Delft have their own study association, the place to be for useful information about your study and for lots of fun. Also consider joining student association NOVA. NOVA has its own club (SooS) on the ground floor of the building. With a beer at the bar, you will automatically get to know the students from other programmes.

Studying with a disability

Do you have dyslexia, AD(H)D or autism? Do you have a hearing, visual or physical impairment? Do you have a chronic or mental illness? And would you like advice on how to combine this with your studies? Visit the student counsellor. All sorts of arrangements can be made to make studying easier for you. Think of extra time for exams, extra support, but also a specially equipped relaxation room. You can also contact the student counsellor if special situations arise during your studies that affect your studies and results. These conversations are strictly confidential.

Karin de Hilster and Marjolein Pronk are the student counsellors in Delft. They can be found in room 1.091 and can be reached at 015-260 63 85
tisd-decanaat@hhs.nl.

Study career counselling

Throughout your studies, you will be in contact with a study career counsellor. You will discuss your study progress, your internships, the progress of your portfolio and your personal development with them.

Going abroad

Do you already feel like going abroad for a while during your studies? To do an internship or minor there? That's possible! We have agreements with many universities of applied sciences abroad, but you can also come up with your own plan. Send your questions about studying broad to tis-international@hhs.nl.

Library - with study areas

THUAS has a central library in the main building in The Hague and a small media library at the Delft location. The library in the main building has plenty of study areas. You also have access to the digital library via your THUAS account. There you will find magazines, e-books and databases. Also useful: you can apply for a free library card at the TU Delft library. This allows you to consult and borrow all kinds of technical-scientific information.

Research projects for real clients

Within THUAS, we do a lot of practice-oriented research. Students, preferably from different degree programmes, work with lecturer-researchers on all kinds of fun projects for real clients. The Betafactory is housed in the portable building next to our Delft location. This is a space specially set up for this purpose, where all kinds of big things are being worked on. The Formula Cruisers' electric racing car is one example. You'll also find the handbike for The Handbike Challenge and the DC lab's tuktuk.

All kinds of labs

There are more places in our building where you can go to work yourself. In our newly renovated workshop, for example. Here, you'll find CNC machines, a laser cutter, and 3D printers. There are also a lot of labs you will be in often or less often, depending on what you study and what you will do in your minor space. A few examples: robot lab, RE/manufacturing LAB, photonics lab, DC lab. Come by if you're in the area.

Restaurant

In the downstairs restaurant, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., you can enjoy a nice lunch or a cup of tea with something to eat. From a bowl of soup or a brie sandwich to a panini, vegetable croquette or chocolate bar.

Facilities & IT front office

You can find the F&IT desk in the main hall of location Delft. If the printer gives an error message, please report it here. If you want to book general rooms and facilities, you can make arrangements with your colleagues at the F&IT front office. If you come by car and want to park on the roof, you can buy your parking ticket here.

Front office faculty office

And there is another front office in Delft. The faculty office's front office, which you will find upstairs (see 'opening hours'). Here you can ask all other questions related to studying. For a grade that has not yet been processed, your P certificate or the room number of a lecturer. Or if you just don't know where to go for something.

Inholland Delft University of Applied Sciences

Inholland Delft is a small university of applied sciences with courses in the green and technical domain. The unique education portfolio of Inholland Delft is a real asset to the student city of Delft and consists of the one English and seven Dutch programmes:

- o Aeronautical Engineering & Precision Engineering (English)
- o Associate degree Tuinbouwmanagement (2-year programme);
- o Dier in de Duurzame Samenleving
- o Flexibele deeltijdopleiding Tuinbouw & Agribusiness;
- o Food Commerce and Technology;
- o Landscape and Environment Management;
- o Luchtvaarttechnologie;
- o Tuinbouw & Agribusiness.

Guidance and Support

During the Introduction Day – the first official day of lectures – you will meet the teaching team of your study program and you will meet your study coach.

Learning by practice! During the study programme you will work on company assignments or do research. Sometimes alone, but usually in a project team with other students. Company assignments are carried out under the supervision of a lecturer and the client. So pay close attention to who to contact if you run into problems:

- o Can the problem be traced back to a company assignment? Then contact the lecturer.
- o Are you're having trouble with your study planning or a delay in your study progress?

In that case, you should first discuss these problems with your study career counselor. Depending on your situation, you will be referred to the student counselor or the Student Success Centre.

You go to the student counselor:

- o in case of personal circumstances that affect your study.
- o if you need extra support beyond what the study coach or the SSC can provide
- o if you intend to combine top sport activities while studying at Inholland University of Applied Sciences.
- o for extra support due to a (functional) limitation.

The sooner you contact the student counsellor, E: decanaat.delft@inholland.nl

Student Success Centre

The Student Success Centre (SSC) is for students and is run by students.

Starting to study in a foreign country can be quite complicated. As an international student you have a lot to get used to. A new environment, student housing, making new friends and cultural differences, Dutch rules & laws and getting used to new methods of education.

xThere is a lot to cope with, so it is not surprising that not everything works out at once. The student buddies of the SSC can help with finding your way at Inholland Delft, in the Netherlands and adapting to student life. No matter how small, large or complex your question is, they will help you find your way. Just walk into our office, or send an e-mail to ssc.delft@inholland.nl

International Office

Once you arrive in The Netherlands, lots of new experiences will be waiting for you. There might also be a few practical things that you need to arrange, like opening a bank account, registering at the municipality and having your health insurance checked. Pay a visit to the International Office, if you have difficulties with or questions about the above.

Inholland apps

Before the start of your study, you will be informed via the MyStart app about your registration, the introduction period, your book list and other things that are necessary for a good start of your study. As from the first day of lectures all information about the educational programme, such as the timetables, will be shared through the Mijn Inhollandapp.

Study societies

Delft, one of the oldest student cities in the Netherlands, has a vibrant student life. There are numerous student unions (could also be called fraternities), mostly located in the historic city center. There's a fraternity for everyone (international studies, music, sports, drinking & social activities, religious etc.). Aeronautical & Precision Engineering has its own student association: V.S.V. Sipke Wynia. The board members organize guest lectures, excursions to aviation businesses, skiing trips in winter and drinks, where you can get cheap (alcoholic) drinks.

LIJST BÈTA

STUDENTCOUNCIL

Lijst Bèta is a party in the central student council of TU Delft. As a student council party, it is our responsibility to represent all students within the university's decision-making processes. For example, we are in constant contact with students and staff about how we can improve the university. Our focus here is on what connects us all, no matter what kind of student you may be: Education. We want the TU Delft to offer its students education that is challenging, effective and future-oriented. In addition, as a progressive party, we see it as our goal to also put new items on the agenda, such as diversity and sustainability.

We have also been advocates for better facilities for mental well-being and combating transgressive behavior for a long time. This way we hope that everyone can get the most out of their time at TU Delft!

ORAS

STUDENTCOUNCIL

ORAS is the largest party in TU Delft's student council. The student council is a group of ten students representing all students at TU Delft. As ORAS, we have a clear vision: we believe that a student becomes the best engineer through top quality education, supported by the right facilities and with opportunities to develop within or outside their studies. When it comes to education, you can think of good study guidance and a lower BSA. In terms of facilities, we are working on a findability tool that shows you where a free study spot is and we want to work on sustainability! Finally, we want to give students the opportunity to do something besides their studies, such as a committee or sports.

Would you like to know more about ORAS? Then you can check out our website, www.oras.nl or on Instagram, @oras_delft or if you have any questions you can always email info@oras.nl!

D:DREAM TEAMS

DREAMTEAMS

World wide the TU Delft is famous for its successful student teams. These teams, in Delft also known as the Dream Teams, are fully organized by the driven students themselves. From team management up to design and production of their inventions, all happens on and around the university campus.

The acronym DREAM stands for "Delft: Dream Realisation of Extremely Advanced Machines". In these teams, young engineers make their dreams come true. Well-known teams such as the Vattenfall Solar Team, Delft Hyperloop, Project MARCH, Forze Hydrogen Racing and many others have been built up out of the shared principle of wanting to realise technical innovations. As a first year student this all might seem far away, but the teams are open for all students. The success does not only depend on the technical knowledge and prestations, as a large dose of motivation and perseverance might be of even more importance. So don't hesitate to discover and take a look!

STUDIUM GENERALE

BROADENING ACTIVITIES

Do you think it is important to think about how you contribute to society as an engineer, designer, architect, urban planner or researcher? That requires more than just professional knowledge, namely thinking about what we consider a good society. Especially in a time of great changes and uncertainties – think of new technologies like ChatGPT, inclusion and diversity, climate change and post-pandemics. Issues that raise urgent questions; about society, but also about you.

Studium Generale is the place to address those questions. Visit our lectures, workshops, debates, film and documentary screenings with a broad range of topics, presented by known and unknown scientists, authors, journalists, politicians and more, often on the boundary between technology and society. Occasionally controversial, always critically minded. Many of our events can be found on campus or in the city of Delft.

Our activities are open to all visitors and (almost) always free of charge. Interesting in visiting one of our programmes? Visit our website or sign up for our newsletter!

UNIVERSITYFUND

STUDENTFUND

Delft University Fund supports TU Delft by contributing to research, education and talent development. The University Fund has recently created FAST, the student committee of the University Fund, especially for students and stands for Funding Ambitious Students TU Delft. FAST is the contact point for all TU Delft students with questions about grants for e.g. study abroad, competitions, conference presentations or other ambitious project proposals.

Do you have an ambitious idea you would like to realize? Or are you looking for support for a project abroad? See what we can do for you at www.tudelft.nl/fast. Did you know that the University Fund also manages the crowdfunding platform www.supporttudelft.nl

and that students can submit projects for it as well? In addition, top talent at TU Delft is regularly put in the spotlight by the University Fund through awards such as TU Delft Best Graduate. Want to know more? Go to www.universiteitsfondsdelft.nl

VSSD

STUDENTUNION

In the modern world, students are presented with a considerable number of challenges that make their studies difficult. If you've always wanted to help change that, but never felt sure about committing to a single issue, the VSSD is the perfect organization for you. At the VSSD we focus on improving student life in any way possible, we work towards an easier study experience vying for your interests in a big number of issues. Some examples of areas we are currently working on for are: housing availability, mental wellness activities, academic fairness, economic support from the government and much more!

Through the VSSD you'll get a chance to share and have your concerns be heard. Our board provides an amazing opportunity as you will get lots of understanding on how legislation and projects involving students are developed, plus you'll get to leave your mark on them! Do you want to have a real impact on student life? We're waiting for you.

VeRa

ASSOCIATIONSCOUNCIL

Dear Owee'er,

During the Owee you will have the great opportunity to experience and discover all kinds of student associations and societies. Sports, music, or fun, everyone can find something that suits them within the beautiful Delft. We therefore certainly encourage you to check out as many places as possible and maybe even join one of them.

In the background, we may help you with this new step. We, the Executive Board of the Delft Association Council, organize a weekly meeting with the eighteen affiliated associations. Together we set up great initiatives that benefit all students. We also keep in touch with TU Delft, the municipality and the national association council. We do our best to make Delft as fun as possible for students."

SVD

VOLUNTEERING ORGANISATION

SVD stands for Student Volunteer Delft and our mission is to make volunteering work more accessible for students in Delft! If you visit our website, you'll find different kinds of volunteering opportunities in Delft, such as making dinner for a neighbour or gardening with a senior. We also organise different volunteering events ourselves for different groups in Delft. During Sinterklaas we wrap gifts for children who may not receive any and we organise a Christmas event for elderly people who get lonely during that time of the year. In June it's time for StudentDoet, a day when members of different student and study associations do volunteering work simultaneously throughout the whole city of Delft! We close this day off with a charity concert where everyone is welcome. All these volunteering events include lots of fun and games, but still, we like to show our appreciation for every student volunteer by having drink, movie and theater nights with them :)

So, if you think it's important to give back to the city that provides so many possibilities for you, don't hesitate and reach out to us! You can follow us on Instagram, @stichtingsvd, for the latest volunteering opportunities.

S4S

INNOVATION ON SUSTAINABILITY

The Students4Sustainability Foundation (S4S) is a student organisation whose aim is to encourage Delft students to apply innovative techniques for a more sustainable world. With 100% of the money we receive through donors, we give students a chance to make a difference through technical projects in developing countries. S4S offers these students the chance to realise their ideas on a global level through both financial support and sharing experiences and knowledge. In this way, the growing gap between western countries and developing countries can be bridged.

Fun fact: You can get up to 3000 euros from our funding for your sustainable project!

DO YOU WANT TO HELP WITH OWEE 2024?

This year marks the 50th OWee. The OWee could not exist without the help of senior students. For 50 years, a large group of senior students have enjoyed working together to organize the OWee.

The OWee board consists of 8 students who work hard for 7 months to ensure that you as a participant can go to fun and diverse events, you get food, somewhere to sleep, you come into contact with all the associations Delft has to offer and much more. We make sure you get the chance to get to know the city, the campus, the associations and most importantly new friends!

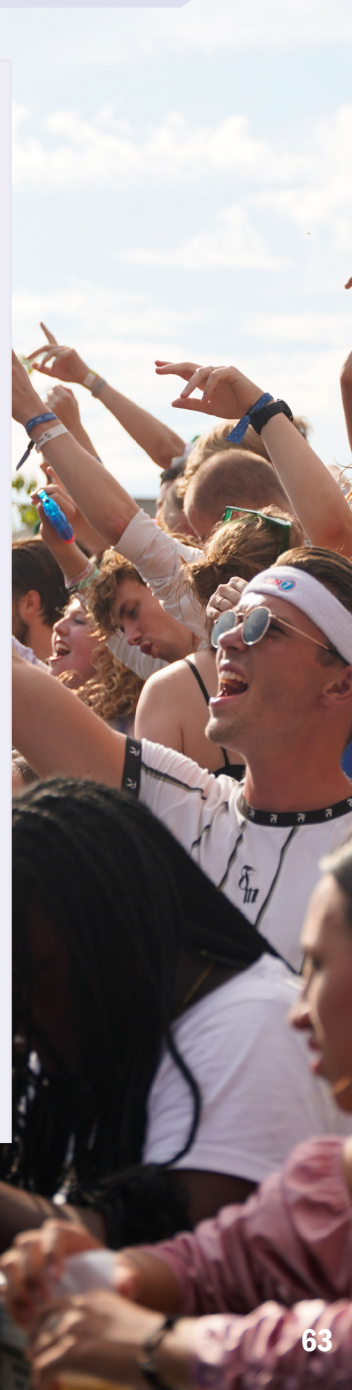

The OWee board is supported by three committees: OWee TV, Event Managers & Communications Managers. OWee TV captures everything that happens with playful videos and beautiful photos. Event managers make sure that all events during the OWee run smoothly and support in the set-up and take-down. Communication managers ensure that all your questions are answered, your registration runs smoothly and are responsible for the digital platform.

The OWee board and committees are supported by work actions during the OWee. They help with the running and setting up of all events.

During the OWee you will be assigned to an OWee group and have 2 mentors. Your mentors are 2 older students, who are good friends and take you along during the OWee to show you everything Delft has to offer!

Would you like to help out at the OWee next year? Keep an eye on the website and Instagram and hopefully we will see you next year!

UNICEF STUDENT TEAM DELFT

CHARITY ORGANISATION

We are a close-knit group of 25 students who raise funds for a good cause! This cause is chosen each year by all the Unicef student boards in the Netherlands. Last year it was project Ivory Coast. With this project recycled plastic waste is used to build school classrooms. To raise funds we organise multiple events throughout the year.

These are organised by the board or one of the four committees. One of our main principles is freedom. We stimulate our committee members to think about new, fun, and creative ways to raise these funds. We also work closely together with a lot of other organisations and associations in Delft. Examples of these events are the Symposium, the Fair, and a pubquiz. We hope to see you there!

Fun fact: We have only been active in Delft for 5 years.

SVR

COUNCIL OF STUDY ASSOCIATIONS

Dear prospective student,

During your time as a student, your study association can play a significant part in your career as a TU Delft student. The possible interaction already starts at the freshman weekend that is organized by the study association of your study. During your time of study, your study association offers a lot of support and possibilities e.g. buying study books with discounts, attending career events, or drinking a cup of coffee or a beer with your fellow students. The TU Delft counts 15 different study associations, all representatives of different studies. The Executive Board of the SVR is there to stimulate mutual contact between the study associations and represent these study associations in a number of working groups and committees of the TU Delft. The Board initiates and organizes various meetings throughout the year where study associations share thoughts on matters that concern the general student of the TU Delft. This is run by three part-time students from different study associations, as the umbrella organization of all study associations in Delft. We wish you a great start to your time as a student!

DISS

REPRESENTMENT OF INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

DISS is the leading voice for international students in Delft. Our goal is to bring students from all nationalities together and improve their stay in Delft. Student Onbeperkt is a platform for and by students with disabilities. We believe that all students should feel at home at the TU. We will assist you with your request for help from the TU, such as requesting facilities or extra exam time. In addition, we work with the TU on the policy regarding studying with a disability and organize workshops and lectures on the many aspects of studying with a disability. In short, our goal is described as: 'Interact, improve & inform!'

Everyone of our members is different and there are no obligations to becoming a member. Interested? Visit our monthly open conversation evenings to chat about your challenges and experiences! Find us on Instagram, the TU-Delft website or Facebook under StudentOnbeperkt!

LEONARDO DA VINCI

AEROSPACE ENGINEERING

The Society of Aerospace Engineering Students 'Leonardo da Vinci' was established in 1945 and has grown into one of the largest societies of its kind in Europe, with approximately 2800 members. The society aims to serve the interests of aerospace students in every aspect of their student lives.

Each academic year, a multitude of activities - social, educational, career - oriented, and more are organized by the VSV through its committees and departments.

The 23 committees and 4 departments perform their respective functions which range from maintaining the quality of the study programs, organising a Top Gun movie night, transforming the faculty into a club for the faculty party, taking over the aula with the yearly symposium and maintaining Leonardo Times, the journal of the VSV. Workshops and excursions are also frequently organized by the departments, with the goal of visiting companies relating to their respective branches (space or aviation).

MINING ASSOCIATION

APPLIED EARTH SCIENCES

The 'Mijnbouwkundige Vereniging' is the student association of Applied Earth Sciences and they will help you with many things during your studies. For example, in organizing workshops, tutoring and for a free cup of coffee in the 'MV room'. Next to all of this, we organize lots of activities and drinks that often take place in our own bar 'Het Noorden', which is located in the city center of Delft. AES students form a tightly-knit group of students and 'Het Noorden' is one of the major reasons that they are, because of the weekly drinks that give the opportunity to chat with fellow students and you might even find some of your professors there. The first excursion (of many) you experience during your studies is the Freshmen weekend, which will take place in Germany & Belgium. Make sure you register for this weekend to get to know your fellow students and the study you're about to start! We're looking forward to meeting you on August 10th. Check our Instagram 'mijnbouwkundige_vereeniging' to get to know more about the association! Glück Auf!

STYLOS

As a study association, Variscopic organizes many fun activities: drinks, excursions, parties but also many study oriented activities. These activities are often organized by committees consisting of students. Super fun committees that you can join!

The study association S. G. "William Froude" is the association of the study marine engineering. The thing that makes the association so special is that it's small but close so everyone knows each other. Every year about 80 students begin their first year. All these students also join the study association and everyone does a lot and is very active. For example: you can join excursions or join a party. This is why we are all very close with each other and this makes it easy to reach out for help or ask some questions to other students. You know not only your one friends but also students who are further in their study.

We also have a special room for our members to just relax and take a cup of coffee (or we call it Froffee). Also the marine hallway is a busy place where everyone studies and socialises.

SOCIAL ASSOCIATION

DSB is the place to combine relaxation, personal development and studying. After a busy day at uni, you can come to our association for drinks, epic parties or to develop yourself in many areas such as sports, music and drama.

In contrast to other associations, DSB has a unique structure. Instead of forming new groups per year, members join an existing group that stretches over all years. This way, it is easy to stay active for long and become close with old and new members immediately, everyone is equal.

DSB is equally a place to help out with studying. Through our first-years-committee, study progress is monitored and help is offered. We also have multiple houses where members live.

Come visit our building for a taste of what it is like to be a member. For more info, visit our facebook, Instagram and website: www.oweedsb.nl

SPORTS & CULTURE

V.V. ARISTON '80

SOCCER

With more than 550 members, v.v. Ariston '80 offers a place for everyone within our 21 teams. We are at home at every level. From the nicest beer teams that shine during the third half to our serious first teams that perform on the fields.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays all teams train hard. The famous third half takes place during our drinks, on Wednesdays and Saturdays in our own building on the Brabantse Turfmarkt: De Tap. There are also many parties and other activities such as our wonderful club weekend, New Year's tournament and the annual end of year tournament 'De Finale'. These are made possible by our many committees to which you can also contribute. At v.v. Ariston '80 you can find your place in Delft and come and play football at your own level.

TUTOR

SOCCER

Upset by the Dutch weather? Enough of another match played out in the cold? Done with the ruined weekends because of your match on Saturday evening? Look no further than FC Tutor! This lively association is the one and only student futsal association in Delft. Futsal is a dynamic and exciting variant of football. It's played on a smaller field inside a hall, and is five against five. Therefore you're almost always either on the ball, or running into space to receive the ball. Never a dull moment in a futsal match. With over 150 members (40% of which is international), and 10 teams, there's always fun to find. Inside the hall you'll often find people spectating matches, and players also like to play matches for other teams when needed. So a good way to quickly meet more people. Outside of the hall we also regularly organize activities to increase our Tutor-spirit. So, are you our latest addition this year?

PROTEUS-ERETES

ROWING

Rowing is a common sport among students in the Netherlands, that allows you to become very good relatively quick. Even the Olympic Games can be reached via Proteus-Eretes. For example, two Olympic medals were won by our members in Tokyo and Rio. But there are also members that prefer to row when the sun is out and enjoy a nice beer afterwards. Nevertheless rowing is what connects us all at this competitive and above all social association.

Besides rowing, Proteus-Eretes offers you much more! Drinks are hosted twice a week and often there are parties, but you can also join a committee and organise cool activities!

At Proteus-Eretes you will make friends for life, who will instantly make you feel at home in Delft. So feel free to come by during the OWee to make your first rowing strokes and discover everything else our association has to offer you!

LAGA

ROWING

This summer you will discover association life and you will certainly encounter Laga. In recent years, Laga has grown into one of the largest rowing clubs of the country with almost 900 members and it is the perfect place to start your student life! For many starting students, rowing is unfamiliar territory, but once you've started, you won't let go. Racing in the competition field or rowing in the sun with your teammates, the choice is yours at Laga. Being a member of D.S.R.V Laga means more than just rowing. With dinners, drinks and other activities you can fully immerse yourself in student life. In addition, it is possible to develop yourself in all kinds of areas; organizing parties or rowing competitions, tapping behind the bar or odd jobs in the building committee. All this happens from the heart of Laga, the beautiful historic boathouse in the center of Delft.

VRIENDEN VAN TRUI

SAILING

A strong breeze blowing steadily through your hair, salty breaths of air, holding on to the helm tightly with both your hands and the sails beating windward. No modern equipment required. This is what sailing on a 145 year old wooden ship is like—a unique experience. Crossing the IJsselmeer, landing on mudflats at low tide on the Wadden Sea, and checking out a local port's pub afterwards with a tight-knit group of people. Enter a training to become a first mate or skipper, or help out with the upkeep and restoration of this floating piece of heritage. These are just a few of the cool experiences you can expect to have on Trui. Trui (fisheries registration number BU130) is a traditional Botter, a type of fishing ship that was common in olden times on the coasts of the former Zuiderzee. Most of us sailing her are members of student association De Bolk*. Sailing is mostly done on weekends between various harbours, after which you'll usually spend the night on board. When done sailing we like to grab a few drinks in a local pub. Has this sparked your curiosity? During the OWee, Trui will be moored in front of De Bolk*, where we'll gladly tell you more about this amazingsailingvessel! You can visit our website www.bu130.nl right now for more information.

*See De Bolk's dedicated page earlier

Another part that separates Ultimate Frisbee from other sports is the "Spirit Of The Game"; there are no referees, so all the players have to make and resolve the calls themselves. This always results in good vibes on the field.

Force Elektro is the Ultimate Frisbee club of Delft. Our club has over 140 members of which 50% are international. The club has a Ladies team and Open teams facilitating different levels of experience. Force Elektro also organises social activities and has its own bar for our members to get to know each other better and also have fun off the field!

After a day of outdoor climbing, there is nothing better than sitting around a campfire with "Yetianen". In the winter, we organize both ski touring courses and regular winter sports. During the Christmas holiday, we seek warmth and beautiful rocks in Southern France. More than a week of climbing in stunning nature with your friends, what else could you want?

DELFT FENCING CLUB

FENCING

Hello! Welcome to the most beautiful sport in the world and the best fencing club in the Netherlands! Fencing boasts a long history and incredible iconic figures, like the Three Musketeers and Zorro. the three fencing weapons: epee, where the focus is on technique, and sabre, where explosiveness and surprise are most important.

If you are wondering if fencing is something for you, then be sure to stop by some time, we would gladly let you experience everything we've got!

CULTUUR

LATITUD is a non-profit and non-political association, founded by TUDelft students, PhD candidates and researchers. LATITUD's goal is to bring together people from Latin America and other countries interested in Latin American culture through social and professional events.

LATITUD tries to create a "Latin vibe" environment. Social and professional events such as latin festivities and meetups give us the opportunity to share our culture and help with career development.

We are a community of creators that bring together the best of both worlds: the Latin American values of family, respect and passion, and contemporary global principles of tolerance, inclusion and social conscience.

We do not focus on culture in a static way, we are mainly focused on promoting growth and development.

A few Delft studies are taught in combination with another university. Molecular Science & Technology and Life Science & Technology take place partly in Leiden. For Nanobiology, you are sometimes in Rotterdam. For Clinical Technology studies, you can be found in Delft, Leiden and Rotterdam.

Rotterdam's introduction week is called Eurekaweek. This takes place from 21 to 24 August 2023, a week after the OWee! This means you can join both introduction weeks.

Leiden's introduction week is called EL CID and takes place from 14 to 18 August 2023. This is at the same time as the OWee. The programme has not been finalised yet, so it is still unclear to what extent it is possible to combine the introduction weeks of both cities. In that case, it is useful to choose the city that appeals to you most or where you would like to live.
