SICC zine VOL III. – Crime Edition

The Sicc.zine collective is seeking works of all media for the SICC zine VOL III. - Crime Edition.

Artists have limitless power of creation in their own artistic world. One could say they are divine creators. As divine entities, they can be considered above the law. Numerous artists have a criminal background: Caravaggio, Benvenuto Cellini, Adolf Loos or Banksy. How do we deal with such personalities, and even more: how do we deal with their artworks? Do laws and rules apply in art or should art be allowed to do everything? Since this issue of lawfulness is heavily discussed in the art world, we chose it as a topic for our next issue of the SICC zine. Have you ever committed a crime? What is even considered criminal? Submissions may be personal, political, questioning ethics, or even inspired by true events – we are looking forward to seeing your submissions and what inspires you about the world of crime!

Deadline: 08 September 2022

Requirements: 4 pages A5 (2 spreads but exported in single pages) in JPEG, TIFF or PSD in 300 dpi or more, color: CMYK + a short text about your concept + CV

Please send the submissions to sicc.zine@gmail.com

A selection of 20 artists will be featured in the SICC zine VOLIII. - Crime Edition. The selected artists will also be part of an exhibition, that will be curated following the publication of the zine.

We are looking forward to receiving your submissions!
